Partnership

Partnership: Central Park Conservancy

This has been an extraordinary year for Central Park and its present and future visitors. The Conservancy was honored to accept the largest gift ever made to any public park, and one of the largest to be made to a New York City cultural institution. The extraordinary gift of $100 million from the Paulson Family Foundation will literally touch every acre of our magnificent Park. It ushers Central Park and the Conservancy into their latest phase: long-term sustainability, unprecedented maintenance and management, and a model for other parks and public spaces worldwide.

The Conservancy's new agreement with the City of New York was signed, and our partnership with the City is officially extended and expanded for the next decade.

These important landmarks enable the Conservancy to end the perpetual cycle of decline and restoration that had devastated Central Park for most of the 19th and 20th centuries. Thanks to these critically important milestones, the Central Park Conservancy has just completed a significant and bold strategic plan that will ensure our place as the leader in urban park management, discussed in this report.

This year the Conservancy launched its Central Play Initiative, a $40 million undertaking that will elevate all of the Park's 21 playgrounds to the same standard of excellence. This report highlights the completion of our newest playground renovations: East 110th Street Playground and Tarr-Coyne Tots Playground at West 68th Street.

We also highlight this year's innovative programs of the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks, which focus on developing new educational experiences for our 40 million annual visitors. Through the Institute, the Conservancy is also committed to both training and advising local, national, and international urban parks.

We take great pride in the role we have played in leading Central Park's re-emergence as the most important cultural institution and legendary open space in New York City. This is year's great accomplishments insure an exciting future for Central Park, the City, and the Conservancy.

Partnership: The City of New York

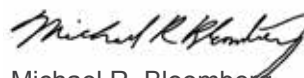

On behalf of the City of New York, we are proud to join the Central Park Conservancy in presenting its annual report.

In 1980, civic and philanthropic leaders founded the Central Park Conservancy to restore the Park to the splendor envisioned by its 19th-century designers, Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux. The results over the past 33 years have been tremendous. Central Park now welcomes more than 40 million annual visitors, making it our City's most popular cultural institution.

The City's partnership with the Central Park Conservancy has been key to this success. This year, the City signed a new management contract with the Conservancy, which ensures that Central Park will continue to benefit from a high level of service. Through the maintenance assistance which the contract calls for — and thanks to this year's launch of the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks, which will share best practices among partner groups — the Conservancy will collaborate with parks across the City as well. These initiatives are in addition to the extensive physical improvements that will be made to Central Park, all for a fraction of what such projects would cost the City on its own.

By directing private funds toward both operating staff and capital projects, the Conservancy has become a model public-private partnership. We are grateful for every donation the Conservancy receives from its hundreds of individual, corporation, and foundation supporters — and we are especially thankful for an unprecedented $100 million gift from John A. Paulson and the Paulson Family Foundation.

As New York City becomes even greener and greater, we thank the Central Park Conservancy for its steadfast leadership. Together, we can be confident that the Conservancy will enjoy many more years of success in protecting and enhancing Central Park, sustained by the public it serves so well.

Leadership: Michael R. Bloomberg — Mayor of the City of New York, 2002 to 2013

Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg will certainly leave a legacy as the greatest environmental and park advocacy mayor that New York City has ever had. The Conservancy trustees, donors, and staff are grateful for his tremendous support as a partner during key years of Central Park's development and growth. His excellent appointments of First Deputy Mayor Patricia Harris (2002–2013) and Parks Commissioners Adrian Benepe (2002–2012) and Veronica White (2012–2013) gave the Conservancy the dedicated and supportive partners for all our work. The two contracts with the Conservancy during Mayor Bloomberg's tenure, in 2006 and again in 2013, have ensured a strong commitment to our public-private partnership. His administration has overseen the growth of parks and parkland, a result of recognizing the necessity for support in order to achieve a great urban park system.

Mayor Bloomberg understands the connection between successful park restoration and its subsequent maintenance and management in order to break the endless cycles of decline and restore that plagued Central Park for over a century. The recent contracts between the City and the Conservancy are a commitment to that end.

The Mayor's PlaNYC, a program with well over 100 initiatives to enhance the quality of life for all New Yorkers, has changed our City dramatically since it was launched on Earth Day 2007. In that short time New York has achieved the cleanest air quality levels in 50 years, which also includes the no smoking ban in New York City parks, a tremendous boon for all park maintenance staff. The mayor championed a highly successful recycling program in parks and Citywide. The mayor's bike-share program promotes physical health and reduces the carbon footprint of every citizen who cycles throughout the streets and parks of New York. Central Park is connected through the Parks' bike lanes to other parks and neighborhoods. The Conservancy is also grateful for the City's help, after several disastrous storms, with cleanup and recycling of tons of debris.

As a passionate promoter of public art, Mayor Bloomberg will always be remembered as the impresario of The Gates in February, 2005 by Christo and the late Jeanne-Claude, which brought worldwide attention to their artwork and to the magnificence of Central Park, itself one of America's greatest works of art.

We celebrate the twelve years of Mayor Bloomberg's outstanding leadership and welcome him into the pantheon of foremost visionaries and leaders of Central Park.

The Strategic Plan

An aerial photograph of Central Park in New York City. The park is a large, rectangular green space filled with dense trees. In the center, there is a large blue lake with a small waterfall on the right side. The park is surrounded by a dense urban landscape of skyscrapers and buildings, with the Manhattan skyline visible in the background under a clear sky.

The Strategic Plan

In 2010 the Conservancy developed a forward-thinking, ten-year strategic plan for Central Park. Now three years later, thanks to the extraordinary $100 million dollar gift from the Paulson Family Foundation, the new ten-year operating and capital agreements with the City of New York, and the creation of the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks, we have been given the opportunity to accelerate the implementation of the most significant agenda since Rebuilding Central Park, the 1985 Master Plan that guided the 30-year restoration of the Park. The Strategic Plan consists of a threefold focus for the organization: Planning, Design and Construction projects, innovations in Operations, and the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks.

Planning, Design and Construction Programs

A dramatic increase in Park use has required a strategic plan to sustain the current successful management model of continued restoration and conservation of the Park's landscapes and structures.

The Paulson Family Foundation gift has enabled the Conservancy to develop and implement a ten-year program that focuses on the remaining unrestored Park landscapes such as the woodlands; Merchants' Gate at Columbus Circle; Grand Army Plaza; and the remaining playgrounds of the Central Play campaign. The City will also be allocating resources for selective capital projects.

Innovation in Operations

We have reshaped our operations management to separate our horticulture initiatives from basic landscape maintenance and sanitation, employing state-of-the-art equipment in all areas. The outcome of this initiative will result in a more efficient and more professional focus for each of these critically important functions. In addition, we are committed to continue and to expand our operational assistance to other New York City parks.

In the area of sanitation, we are encouraging the public to practice the "carry in, carry out" policies so successful in our national parks and many state parks, where visitors are asked to carry their refuse out of the park to either their home or to another appropriate location

Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks

With the successful transformation of the physical Park, the number of visitors has increased to over 40 million visits annually. This enormous rise in use has also created additional need for enhancement of the visitor's experience, in part, through the development of the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks — the educational arm of the organization.

The overarching goal of the Institute is to develop responsibility and respect for urban parks to help ensure the long-term sustainability of the Conservancy and the Park. The Institute develops programs designed to facilitate discovery of the Park and transfer knowledge of our world-class urban park management and stewardship practices, both locally and globally. Key staff members are now in place and have begun to oversee and facilitate the separate but related components within the Institute.

The Institute will develop content for public programs and tours, staff training and courses, and other resources to provide world-class educational opportunities for Conservancy staff and those of other parks, education professionals, and the public.

A cornerstone of the Institute's work to support other parks is the Park-to-Park program, which offers both training and direct assistance to other park organizations. Included in our pedagogical model is both classroom and field training. We provide this and other training to current and aspiring professionals from urban park management and other related fields. All training modules are based on the Conservancy's best practices in operations and management, which have been developed and refined over the past three decades. The Conservancy has informally supported other park groups in a variety of ways over the years. The Park-to-Park Program of the Institute will help to develop a more focused and strategic approach to this work.

The Ramble and Lake

Current Restoration Projects: The Woodlands Initiative

Current Restoration Projects

The Woodlands Initiative

Central Park's 80 acres of woodlands — North Woods, Ramble, and Hallett Nature Sanctuary — represent the most potent manifestation of the purpose of the Park — to allow all Parkgoers to experience nature and enjoy a respite from the pressures of City life. And despite the common perception that Central Park's woodlands are natural, they are, in fact, complex man-made landscapes that are in need of specialized care and reconstruction following decades of decline and recent storm damage.

Through the Woodlands Initiative, an ambitious $45 million undertaking, the Conservancy will return these important landscapes to their original glory, improving habitat for the Park's wildlife and enriching the visitor experience by allowing Conservancy staff to better utilize the woodlands as an "outdoor classroom" to teach, inspire, and encourage the next generation of environmental stewards.

The first phase of the project will include reconstruction of the Ravine in the 40-acre North Woods. The Ravine, the small valley that is the striking geographic focal point of the North Woods, is home to the Loch, a once-narrow lake that has been thinned to a stream by heavy sediment build-up and erosion over the past hundred years.

Simultaneously, restoration work will take place in the 36-acre Ramble, which commenced a number of years ago in conjunction with the restoration of the Lake shoreline. The Conservancy will complete the restoration of the remaining 27 acres of the Ramble, including the Gill — a stream that tumbles down a rocky slope before spilling into the Lake — and a number of meandering paths and picturesque arches.

The Conservancy will add irrigation infrastructure to the four-acre Hallett Nature Sanctuary and continue to create soft-surface pathways throughout the landscape.

With the Woodlands Initiative, the Conservancy will also expand its specialized Woodlands Crew, the team responsible for horticultural management within the three landscapes who also supervise groups of volunteers and students. This will enable the Conservancy to offer expanded education and volunteer programs that use the woodlands as a laboratory for learning about natural systems, urban ecology, and environmental stewardship.

Current Restoration Projects

Grand Army Plaza

For many Central Park visitors, the entryway of choice — or convenience — is Grand Army Plaza, located at Fifth Avenue and Central Park South. In addition to being a major hub of City foot traffic, the Plaza welcomes tens of thousands of people each day into the Park. A striking New York City landmark, the Plaza is considered one of the most successful urban plazas in the country. Modeled after the Place de la Concorde in Paris and completed in 1916, the Plaza was named in honor of the Grand Army of the Potomac, the Union Army during the American Civil War. The Plaza also features the Sherman Monument, a bronze tribute to General William Tecumseh Sherman and the last major work of renowned American sculptor Augustus Saint-Gaudens.

Having recently completed the conservation and re-gilding of the General Sherman Monument, the Conservancy now seeks additional funds to restore the entire northern half of Grand Army Plaza — a $2 million undertaking. It has been more than 20 years since the Conservancy completed major restoration work at Grand Army Plaza, and heavy traffic and usage has contributed to the noticeable deterioration of the site. The restoration work will include removing the bluestone paving throughout to allow for necessary re-grading and foundation renovations, and then replacing or returning the stone as appropriate. The arc of Callery pear trees that was destroyed in the October 29, 2011 snowstorm will be replaced after the surrounding planting beds are expanded and reinforced. The Plaza's benches, bollards, and curbs will also be replaced or repaired as needed.

Reservoir Running Track

An icon in its own right, the Central Park Reservoir was originally built in the 1860s as a secondary water supply for the City of New York. Holding approximately a billion gallons of water, the Reservoir spans almost the entire width of the Park and runs from 86th to 96th Street. The Reservoir is bordered by a graceful steel fence with cast-iron ornamentation — a replica of the original — created from a historic piece that was discovered at the bottom of the Reservoir in 1998. The installation of the replica of the historic fence in 2004 opened up breathtaking views of the Reservoir and the Manhattan skyline.

Immediately adjacent to the fence is the Reservoir's famous 1.58 mile running track. One of the most classic of New York City experiences — enshrined countless times in film, television, and literature — it is enjoyed by New Yorkers and tourists alike. The track is one of the Park's most important locales for recreation and exercise, allowing millions of people to run, jog, or walk on a low-impact, user-friendly surface.

The running track was restored in the late 1990s and, over 15 years later, heavy use has taken its toll. The track has eroded in many locations, leaving it rutted and uneven, and allowing rainwater to pool and exacerbate the damage. As part of a proposed $3 million restoration, the track will be completely reconstructed to address the chronic drainage issues and ensure that stormwater is shed effectively. A new curb and metal edge will facilitate more effective maintenance of the track, which is critical to ensuring its long term stability. The Conservancy also plans to dedicate a full-time crew to manage the restored track's ongoing care and maintenance.

For more information on Reservoir Running Track and ways you can support our restoration efforts, please contact: Jane McIntosh, Vice President for Philanthropy, 212.310.6641 or jmcintosh@centralparknyc.org

Current Restoration Projects: Central Play

Current Restoration Projects

Central Play

The playgrounds of Central Park are a magical part of childhood in New York City. As these special places are critical to the development, health, and well-being of millions of children, the Central Park Conservancy has launched Central Play, a special initiative that will elevate all of the Park's 21 playgrounds to the same standard of excellence.

Many of Central Park's playgrounds have not been rebuilt or significantly renovated in the last 15 years or more and require full reconstruction, whether based on an entirely new concept or on the existing design. Other playgrounds require focused improvements to meet the design goals and bring all of the playgrounds to the same excellent standard.

Through Central Play, the Conservancy will:

- Improve the relationship and interplay between the playgrounds and the Park
- Enhance the quality and variety of play experiences for different ages, abilities, and needs
- Preserve unique and successful aspects of existing designs
- Design innovative solutions
- Use new strategies and technologies for environmentally sustainable construction and management

Central Play is a $40 million undertaking, and it will ensure that the children of all ages and abilities who frequent the Park's playgrounds will enjoy the same optimal level of play space.

Thanks to Central Play and our generous supporters, the East 110th Street Playground, the Tarr-Coyne Tots Playground (West 68th Street), and the Ruth and Arthur Smadbeck-Heckscher East Playground (East 79th Street) recently underwent renovations and have been reopened. Restoration work is slated to begin in the near future at the following playgrounds: Wild West (West 93rd Street) and Adventure (West 67th Street).

In addition, there are seven playgrounds that are still in need of partial or complete funding before work can begin. These are: Billy Johnson (East 67th Street); Robert Bendheim (East 100th Street); Bernard Family (East 108th Street); Diana Ross (West 81st Street); Mariners' (West 84th Street); Spector (West 86th Street); Safari (West 91st Street); as well as the Pinetum Swings (West 85th Street).

For more information on Central Play and ways you can support the Park's playgrounds, please contact: Jane McIntosh, Vice President for Philanthropy, 212.310.6641 or jmcintosh@centralparknyc.org

Craftsmanship

The East 110th Street Playground

Central Play

This year the Conservancy is proud to have reconstructed two playgrounds under the Central Play campaign: the Tarr-Coyne Tots Playground at West 68th Street, formerly known as Tots Playground, and the East 110th Street Playground, near the north shore of the Harlem Meer. Both playgrounds successfully achieve innovative designs that better integrate the playgrounds with surrounding landscapes and provide a variety of new opportunities for play.

When playgrounds were first introduced in Central Park by the Robert Moses parks administration in the 1930s, the designers enclosed the play areas with restrictive iron fences that separated the playgrounds from the surrounding landscapes. The vision of the Conservancy's Central Play adds a new and natural dimension to the playground experience by incorporating views of the surrounding landscapes and access to small lawns within the playground space.

Central Play is supported in part by the Paulson Family Foundation and JPMorgan Chase.

The East 110th Street Playground at the Harlem Meer

True to the Central Play vision, a low stone wall incorporating attractive wooden benches surrounds the East 110th Street playground, offering children and their caregivers beautiful views of the Harlem Meer's placid water and dramatic rock outcroppings. Surrounding the playground is a newly created lawn and a variety of seasonal plantings.

The playground's design consists of four distinct circular spaces connected by an attractive winding boardwalk made from reclaimed wood. Each of the areas offers children different play opportunities: an exciting and playful water spray; bucket swings; tire swings; and an elaborate and challenging wood climbing feature.

A connection to the Conservancy's programs and exhibits at the adjacent Charles A. Dana Discovery Center encourages additional educational, recreational, and cultural enrichment for the children and their families who visit the playground.

The Conservancy is grateful to Ms. Judith-Ann Corrente & Mr. Willem Kooyker for their generous donation to reconstruct and maintain this extraordinary playground.

Tarr-Coyne Tots Playground at West 68th Street

The design of the new Tarr-Coyne Tots playground improves and enhances the way toddlers can develop their first play experience in Central Park. Besides new playground features like a sprinkler, sandbox, and swings, toddlers will enjoy using the gently sculpted contoured landforms that encourage exploration and activity.

A small adjacent lawn was created in order to provide for unstructured creative play. Additional plantings on the perimeter of the playground provide a visual connection to the seasons.

The storm drainage and water supply infrastructure was rebuilt and surrounding paths leading to the playground are now accessible.

The Conservancy is grateful to the Tarr-Coyne Family for their generous contribution to create this wonderful new addition to Central Park.

Rhododendron Mile East

In the original plan for Central Park, designers Fredrick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux realized that the long and narrow strip of land between Fifth Avenue and the Reservoir presented one of the greatest design challenges in the Park. They attempted to address this by planting an allée of sycamore maple trees to create the effect of a country road. In the early 1900s, a prominent philanthropist, Mrs. Russell Sage, donated funds to plant thousands of rhododendrons on the west side of the Drive, creating new horticultural interest. But the plants did not flourish. Last year the Conservancy restored the planting beds and completed revitalizing the west side of the Drive; this spring visitors marveled at the spectacular wash of bright colors from 1500 rhododendron and azalea plants.

This year the Conservancy completed the east side of the Drive, reconstructing the pedestrian path with new porous asphalt paving, curbs, drainage infrastructure, pipe rail fence, and benches that will provide visitors with the best view of the rhododendrons each spring and an improved pedestrian experience.

New plantings in the area help create a sense of enclosure and separation from the Drive and Fifth Avenue. The granite block margin between the pedestrian path and the Drive was replaced with a planting bed containing evergreen ground cover and low shrubs. New canopy trees were planted to re-establish the allée effect of the original sycamore maples. The slope between the path and Fifth Avenue was replanted to provide shade and obscure views of Fifth Avenue.

The Conservancy is grateful to Jim & Marilyn Simons for their leadership gift towards the restoration of Rhododendron Mile. Additional generous support was also provided by Bruce & Suzie Kovner and Diane & Arthur Abbey.

Operations: Hurricane Sandy Cleanup

Operations

Hurricane Sandy Cleanup

Since the unforeseen microburst, a powerful storm that hit the upper Park in August 2009, emergency measures have been a major priority in the Conservancy's strategic planning. When extreme weather hits, the Conservancy's staff works hard to make Central Park safe and accessible as quickly as possible. When it became obvious that Sandy could seriously affect New York City, our staff took action immediately by lowering the water levels of all of the Park's water bodies to avoid flooding. Sandbags were placed in flood-prone areas. Water drains were inspected and cleared to assure smooth drainage.

The Conservancy put out a call for twelve teams of tree contractors from as far away as Massachusetts. They arrived in the City before the storm started, and when it abated they were on the job immediately under the supervision of the Conservancy's arborists. The Conservancy's eight-member Tree Crew were in the Park during the storm and when the storm lifted, they were immediately deployed to oversee the contractors. They began work in the Park immediately after the storm, inspecting trees for damage and dangerous conditions in every one of the Park's 693 acres of land. Every tree surrounding each of the Park's 21 playgrounds was inspected individually. After the first survey of the Park, inspections were continuous. Our tree experts looked for cracked trees, hanging limbs, and uprooted trees, determining which trees needed to be pruned and which were so damaged they had to be removed. They then worked with the rest of the Conservancy staff to assist with the storm clean up and ensure the safety of the Park.

Of the 20,000 trees in Central Park, over 1,100 trees were damaged or destroyed by Sandy. Our Tree Crew identified each fallen or damaged tree using our GPS tracking system. Damaged trees were logged and flagged in the database in order to monitor their condition.

As directed by the City, Central Park was closed until it was deemed safe to open it to the public.

Once the first phase of the Central Park cleanup was completed, the Conservancy's Tree Crew also dedicated their time and their expertise in Fort Tryon Park, East River Park, and the devastated neighborhoods of Staten Island and Queens.

Operations

The New Waste Management System

The Central Park Conservancy is always developing innovative ways to improve our visitors Park experience. This year we launched a new trash management system that includes handsome new trash cans and a more effective and safer waste management system. The Conservancy has introduced 700 newly designed trash and recycling cans to the Park. The new receptacles are made from partially recycled aluminum donated by Alcoa Inc., and will be more durable than the plastic ones. Their one-of-a-kind design by Landor Associates was inspired by the slats of the Park's benches, which are often adjacent to the trash cans.

The strategic removal and relocation of trash cans will result in fewer pickup vehicles on paths in the Park. Installation of more recycling cans leads to a projected 30 percent increase in recycling parkwide.

The Conservancy is grateful to the Alcoa Foundation, which generously donated the funding for the development of the new trash cans.

Operations

Hallett Zone Gardener

In 1995 the Central Park Conservancy instituted the successful Zone Management System in which a dedicated gardener is assigned to a specific area of the Park. This year the Hallett Nature Sanctuary, the four-acre woodland in the southern end of the Park has a woodland gardener assigned for horticulture, conducting tours, working with the Conservancy's high school and college interns and other environmental and ecological programs.

Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks

Park-to-Park Training

One of the key goals of the Conservancy is to educate and equip the next generation of park stewards and managers to ultimately improve the quality of open spaces in New York City and elsewhere. To that end, the Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks launched its Turf Care Training Program as part of its new Park-to-Park Program. Employees from both the New York City Parks Department and the Conservancy received a straightforward, but comprehensive three-day professional training in the principles of turf care, led by Conservancy experts and its project partners from Rutgers University. The Institute will continue to develop programming and resources that will make it possible for the Conservancy to share its knowledge and expertise of world-class urban park management and stewardship both locally and globally.

This year the Conservancy has also made a commitment to training by hiring an Assistant Director of Staff Training and Development to ensure that all Central Park Conservancy staff are given the opportunity to enhance their professional skills and grow within the organization. In 2013 we have also re-launched our excellent horticulture training program for our Conservancy staff and volunteers.

Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks: Woodlands Discovery Program — The Wild Garden Exhibit

Central Park Conservancy Institute for Urban Parks

Woodlands Discovery Program

As the educational arm of the Conservancy, the Central Park Conservancy Institute facilitates the discovery of the Park. The Institute launched the Woodlands Discovery Program to educate visitors of all ages about the ecology, horticultural, and management of these key Park landscapes.

The Wild Garden Exhibit

The Wild Garden: Discovering Central Park's Woodlands, a free exhibit at the Charles A. Dana Discovery Center, opened on October 18, 2012 and runs to February 1, 2014. The interactive exhibit, for both children and adults, illuminates the history, ecology, and management of the woodlands, and explores why these landscapes are so essential to the purpose of Central Park. The exhibit features a video, maps, and photographs explaining both the problems and solutions of woodlands restoration and includes a digital interactive app that highlights historic photos and reveals hidden areas in the Park's woodlands.

Discovery Kits and Journals

In conjunction with the exhibit, the Conservancy has updated or created three ways for parents or educators to share the woodlands experience with children:

The updated Discovery Kit is a perfect companion for a young explorer's visit to the North Woods. These small backpacks are filled with binoculars, a hand lens, flora and fauna identification guides, colored pencils, and paper. In addition, there are Discovery Journals designed for children ages 8–12 to use with an adult. Journals include drawings of flora, fauna, and forest layers that explorers can color, as well as instructions for in-Park discovery, and a large kid-friendly map of the North Woods. Activity Guides are available for educators or parents as a supplement to Discovery Journals and Kits. The Activity Guides provide additional ecological information and activities to complement the Discovery Journals.

Visitor Experience

Discovery Guides

This year the Conservancy has added to its staff eight new “visitor centers” to the Park. No, they’re not buildings but rather eight men and women who are assigned to highly visited locations throughout the Park, meeting visitors and helping to enhance their Park experience.

With eight Discovery Guides, we can assure that there is a presence in the Park seven days a week, from 8 am to dusk; but you will find the most Guides in the Park during its busiest times — on the weekends and holidays. They have had 48,000 interactions with visitors in the Park this year — from providing simple directions or a map to longer conversations about the Park’s history and design or the Conservancy’s mission and activities. As we continue to develop our Discovery Guide program, we hope to increase the number of Guides.

New Yorkers especially appreciate having an ongoing relationship with a Conservancy staff member, whom they can talk to about the Conservancy, ask questions about the Park, report an issue, or just share a surprising experience.

Armed with knowledge of the Park’s history and horticulture, the Discovery Guides work with our public programs staff to find ways of enhancing the experiences of Park visitors. The Guides act as the Conservancy’s liaisons in the Park, sharing valuable feedback with the rest of the staff and communicating to the public about our important work, with the additional goal of bringing new members to the Conservancy.

Visitor Experience

Central Park Circuit

The Central Park Conservancy launched the second year of its free fitness and training program in the spring of 2013, aimed to inspire and enable New Yorkers to reach their fitness goals.

Twice a week for an hour before the sun sets, Park visitors could choose either challenging “Play Out” aerobic workouts or gentler “Bliss Out” yoga poses and stretching exercises using the beautiful open spaces — the lawn at Turtle Pond and at the Great Hill — led by professional trainers from Equinox.

The multi-faceted offering also included downloadable workouts and video resources that complemented the in-Park sessions.

Central Park Circuit was sponsored by Equinox.

Visitor Experience

Harlem Meer Performance Festival

Celebrating its 20th season, the Harlem Meer Performance Festival returned to the Park's north end every Sunday between Father's Day, in June, and Labor Day, in September, on the Plaza at the Charles A. Dana Discovery Center. This year's lineup featured a celebration of traditional and contemporary sounds from some of the City's best music and dance artists, including Orlando Marin — The Last Mambo King; the ever-popular Harlem Blues and Jazz Band; an emerging artist Michela Marino Lerman Rhythm Tap; and a commissioned work created for the Festival from Ballet Hispanico's BHDos company.

The Conservancy Volunteer Program

This year marked the 30th anniversary of the Conservancy's Volunteer Department. Originally called L.I.V.E. (Learning and Involvement for Volunteers in the Environment), the program has grown tremendously. There were 927 participants this year from corporations and non-profit organizations and 1,036 individual volunteers, accounting for 53,259 hours of volunteer service in the Park. Our newest volunteer program is the Woodlands Volunteers Team. The Team does seasonal projects in the Park's woodlands such as raking, mulching, planting, weeding invasive plant material, sweeping pathways, and pruning.

Volunteer Programs are presented by EY with support from American Express.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors' Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditors' judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the Conservancy's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Central Park Conservancy, Inc. as of June 30, 2013 and 2012, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

KPMG, LLP is a Delaware limited liability partnership,
the U.S. member firm of KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity.

Other Matters

Our audits were conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements as a whole. The supplementary information included in Schedule I is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements or to the basic financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements as a whole.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2013 and 2012
(Dollars in thousands)

(1) Organization

Central Park Conservancy, Inc. (the Conservancy) is a not-for-profit organization incorporated under the laws of New York State and is a tax-exempt organization under the Internal Revenue Code.

The Conservancy is funded primarily from contributions made by individuals, corporations, and foundations within the metropolitan area, as well as project and contract revenue from the City of New York/Department of Parks and Recreation. These amounts are used to fund major capital improvements, provide horticultural care and maintenance, and offer programs for volunteers and visitors of Central Park. The major capital improvements are not capitalized assets of the Conservancy but are assets of the City of New York.

(2) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies(a) Basis of Accounting

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared on the accrual basis.

(b) Basis of Presentation

Net assets and revenues, expenses, gains, and losses are classified based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions. Accordingly, the net assets of the Conservancy and changes therein are classified and reported as follows:

Unrestricted Net Assets – Net assets that are not subject to donor-imposed restrictions. However, the board of trustees may choose to designate such funds for particular uses.

Temporarily Restricted Net Assets – Net assets subject to donor-imposed restrictions that will be met either by actions of the Conservancy and/or the passage of time.

Permanently Restricted Net Assets – Net assets subject to donor-imposed restrictions that the Conservancy maintains permanently. Generally, the donors of these assets permit the Conservancy to use all or part of the income earned on related investments for general or specific purposes.

Revenues, gains, and other support are reported as increases in unrestricted net assets unless their use is limited by explicit donor-imposed restrictions or by law. Expenses are reported as decreases in unrestricted net assets. Gains and losses on investments and other assets or liabilities are reported as increases or decreases in unrestricted net assets unless their use is restricted by explicit donor stipulation or by law. Expirations of temporary restrictions on net assets (i.e., the donor-imposed stipulated purpose has been fulfilled and/or the stipulated time period has elapsed) are reported as net assets released from restrictions.

CENTRAL PARK CONSERVANCY, INC.

(c) Contributions

Contributions, which include unconditional promises to give (pledges), are recognized as revenues in the period in which the pledge or cash is received. Unconditional promises to give that are expected to be collected in future years are recorded at the present value of their estimated future cash flows, net of allowances. Conditional promises to give are not recognized until they become unconditional, that is, when the future and uncertain event on which they depend has occurred.

(d) Fair Value Measurements

Fair value is defined as the exchange price that would be received for an asset or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price) in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. The Conservancy discloses fair value measurements by level within that hierarchy. The fair value hierarchy maximizes the use of observable inputs and minimizes the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value. The three levels of inputs that may be used to measure fair value:

- Level 1 Inputs that reflect unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Conservancy has the ability to access at the measurement date.
- Level 2 Inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability either directly or indirectly, including inputs in markets that are not considered to be active.
- Level 3 Inputs that are unobservable.

A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement.

(e) Investments

Investments in equity securities with readily determinable fair values and all investments in debt securities are reported at fair value based upon quoted market prices with gains and losses included in the statements of activities. Donated securities are measured at fair value at the date of the contribution and investments in real estate are recorded at net asset value provided by the fund manager based upon the underlying net assets of the fund.

The Conservancy follows the provisions of Accounting Standards Update (ASU) No. 2009-12, Investments in Certain Entities That Calculate Net Asset Value per Share (or Its Equivalent), relating to certain investments in funds that do not have readily determinable fair values, including private equities, hedge funds, real estate, and other funds (alternative investments). ASU 2009-12 allows for the estimation of the fair value of investments in investment companies for which the investment does not have a readily determinable fair value using net asset value per share or its equivalent, as provided by the investment managers. The Conservancy reviews and evaluates the values provided by the investment managers and agrees with the valuation methods and assumptions used in determining the net asset values of these investments. These estimated fair values may differ

CENTRAL PARK CONSERVANCY, INC.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2013 and 2012
(Dollars in thousands)

significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market for these securities existed.

Most investments classified in Levels 2 and 3 consist of shares or units in investment funds as opposed to direct interests in the funds' underlying holdings, which may be marketable. Because the net asset value reported by each fund is used as a practical expedient to estimate fair value of the Conservancy's interest therein, its classification in Level 2 or 3 is based on the Conservancy's ability to redeem its interest at or near June 30. If the interest can be redeemed in the near term, the investment is classified as Level 2. The classification of investments in the fair value hierarchy is not necessarily an indication of the risks, liquidity, or degree of difficulty in estimating the fair value of each investment's underlying assets and liabilities.

(f) Income Taxes

The Conservancy follows ASU No. 2009-06, Implementation Guidance on Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes and Disclosure Amendments for Nonpublic Entities (ASU 2009-06), in conjunction with its adoption of Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes (now included in Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) Subtopic 740-10, Income Taxes – Overall). The Conservancy recognizes the effect of income tax positions only if those positions are more likely than not of being sustained. Income generated from activities unrelated to the Conservancy's exempt purpose is subject to tax. The Conservancy did not have any material unrelated business income tax liabilities for the years ended June 30, 2013 and 2012.

(g) Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are recorded at cost. Furniture and equipment are depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the term of the lease or life of the asset, whichever is shorter.

(h) Split-Interest Agreements

The Conservancy's split-interest agreements with donors consist primarily of charitable gift annuities and irrevocable charitable remainder trusts for which the Conservancy serves as trustee. Assets are invested and payments are made to donors and/or other beneficiaries in accordance with the respective agreements. The investments held under split-interest agreements are invested principally in mutual funds, which are fair valued as of June 30 using Level 1 inputs in the fair value hierarchy.

Contribution revenue for charitable gift annuities and charitable remainder trusts is recognized at the date the agreement is established, net of the liability recorded for the present value of the estimated future payments to be made to the respective donors and/or other beneficiaries.

The present value of payments to beneficiaries of charitable gift annuities and charitable remainder trusts is calculated using discount rates, which represent the risk-adjusted rates in existence at the date of the gift. Gains or losses resulting from changes in actuarial assumptions and accretions of the

CENTRAL PARK CONSERVANCY, INC.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2013 and 2012
(Dollars in thousands)

discount are recorded as increases or decreases in the respective net asset class in the accompanying statements of activities.

(i) Cash and Cash Equivalents

For the purpose of the statements of cash flows, the Conservancy considers highly liquid investments purchased with an original maturity of three months or less, other than those held in the investment portfolio, to be cash equivalents.

(j) Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingencies at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include the useful lives of fixed assets, allowances for doubtful accounts, the valuation of investments, income tax uncertainties, and other contingencies.

(k) Functional Allocation of Expenses

The costs of providing the various programs and other activities of the Conservancy have been summarized on a functional basis in the accompanying statements of activities. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

(l) Risks and Uncertainties

The Conservancy invests in various investment securities. Investment securities are exposed to various risks such as interest rate, market, and credit risks. Due to the level of risk associated with certain investment securities, it is at least reasonably possible that changes in the values of investment securities will occur in the near term and that such changes could materially affect the amounts reported in the balance sheets.

June 30, 2013	$ 5,839	28,410	18,951	5,258	3,547	62,005

At June 30, 2013, the Conservancy had outstanding commitments to invest in private equity or venture capital limited partnerships. As of June 30, 2013, the Conservancy committed approximately 30.8% of the total investment balance in alternative investments.

Under the terms of the limited partnership agreements, the Conservancy is obligated to periodically advance additional funding for its partnership investments. The unfunded commitments have not been recorded as a liability in the accompanying balance sheets. Such commitments generally have fixed expiration dates or other termination clauses. The Conservancy maintains sufficient liquidity in its investment portfolio to cover such calls.

During fiscal year 2013, one board member made a contribution of $100,000 to the Conservancy and required that $50,000 of the gift be invested in specific alternative investment funds (the Funds) that are managed by his firm and charged usual and customary fees.

Notwithstanding any provisions of any of the invested Funds, or any rights set forth in any Fund's Offering Memorandum or Articles of Association to the contrary, the Conservancy agrees not to submit requests for redemption until 2018 without obtaining the mutual consent of the Donor and the Conservancy. Furthermore, in years 2018 through 2022, the Conservancy agrees that it shall (i) only submit requests for redemption of no more than 10% of the balance of the total of its investment in all funds valued at the end of the prior year, and (ii) use such redemptions strictly for capital expenditures (and related operating expenses) unless the mutual consent of the Donor and the Conservancy is obtained. As of January 1, 2023, the Conservancy may withdraw any portion of the remaining balance, as it shall determine.

	$ 85,259	81,199

(7) Endowment Funds

The Conservancy's endowment consists of 83 individual funds established for a variety of purposes including both donor-restricted endowment funds and funds designated by the Conservancy to function as endowments.

The Conservancy's management and investment of donor-restricted endowment funds have historically been subject to the provisions of the Uniform Management of Institutional Funds Act (UMIFA) and the New York State Trust Laws. In 2006, the Uniform Law Commission approved the model act, the Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA), which serves as a guideline for states to use in enacting legislation. Among UPMIFA's most significant changes was the elimination of UMIFA's important concept of historical dollar-value threshold, the amount below which an organization could not spend from the fund in favor of a more robust set of guidelines about what constitutes prudent spending. In fiscal year 2011, New York State enacted the New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (NYPMIFA).

Pursuant to the investment policy approved by the board, the Conservancy has interpreted the NYPMIFA as allowing the Conservancy to appropriate for expenditure or accumulate so much of a donor-restricted endowment fund as the Conservancy deems prudent for the uses, benefits, purposes, and duration for which the endowment fund is established, subject to the intent of the donor as expressed in the gift instrument absent explicit donor stipulations to the contrary. As a result of this interpretation, the Conservancy has not changed the way permanently restricted net assets are classified.

The remaining portion of the donor-restricted endowment fund that is not classified in permanently restricted net assets is classified as temporarily restricted net assets until those amounts are appropriated for expenditure in a manner consistent with the standards of prudence prescribed by NYPMIFA.

The Conservancy's board of trustees has authorized a policy designed to preserve the value of these pooled investments in real terms (after inflation) and provide a predictable flow of funds to support operations. The Conservancy's investment pool includes contributions, interest, dividends, and realized and unrealized gains and losses, net of investment management fees. The policy permits the use of a spending rate of up to a maximum of 6% applied to a moving average of the value of the investment pool as of December 31 of the five previous years. In both fiscal years 2013 and 2012, the Conservancy utilized a rate of 5% of the total investment pool. In fiscal years 2013 and 2012, the related amounts that were used to support operations were $6,322 and $6,333, respectively.

In general terms, the Conservancy's investment objective is to seek maximum total return – defined as dividend and interest earnings plus any appreciation in market value – consistent with agreed-upon levels of risk. More specifically, the Conservancy seeks returns large enough to provide an additional return beyond the sum of the current spending rate and provisions for inflation.

From time to time, the fair value of assets associated with donor-restricted endowment funds may fall below the level that the donor or the law requires to retain as a fund of perpetual duration. Deficiencies of this nature that are reported in unrestricted net assets as of June 30, 2012 were $1,133. There were no such deficiencies at June 30, 2013. This deficiency results from unfavorable market fluctuations subsequent to the investment of permanently restricted contributions. Subsequent gains that restore the fair value of the assets of the donor-restricted endowment fund to the required level will be classified as an increase in unrestricted net assets. Any changes to the fair value of such deficiencies is reported as a net underwater adjustment in the following table of endowment activity for the years ended June 30, 2013 and 2012.

Visitor services	280	289
Fund-raising	213	331
Management and general	79	87
	$ 844	963

In addition, many individuals have volunteered their time to the Conservancy. The value of these services is not included in the accompanying financial statements.

(9) Retirement Plan

The Conservancy has a defined-contribution retirement plan (the Plan) under Section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code in which all employees, as defined, are eligible to participate. In fiscal year 2010, the Conservancy amended the Plan by adding a new mutual fund platform to the existing annuity product. This change was implemented to enhance and create a more competitive retirement plan. Participants may make voluntary contributions, subject to plan limitations, to be applied toward the mutual fund platform. Contributions no longer flow into the annuity platform.

The Conservancy is obligated to contribute 5% of the employee's base compensation, for all eligible employees, as defined. The Conservancy is also obligated to match employee contributions up to a maximum of 1% of the employee's base compensation, for all eligible employees, as defined. For the years ended June 30, 2013 and 2012, the Conservancy contributed $1,066 and $972, respectively, to the Plan on behalf of its employees. All contributions vest immediately.

In fiscal year 2007, the Conservancy implemented a deferred compensation plan (the Plan) under Section 457(b) of the Internal Revenue Code in which the Conservancy will contribute $15 per annum for each officer of the Conservancy, as defined. For the years ended June 30, 2013 and 2012, the Conservancy contributed $90 to the Plan, in both years.

(10) Commitments and Contingencies(a) Lease

Effective July 1, 2011, the Conservancy extended the terms of its existing lease agreement to include additional office space in New York City. The extension expires in 2023. Annual lease payments include minimum base rent subject to escalation charges and a proportionate share of any increase in real estate taxes.

Thereafter	4,702
	$ 9,784

Rent expense for the years ended June 30, 2013 and 2012 was $1,143 and $984, respectively.

(b) Other

The Conservancy is involved in various claims and legal actions arising in the ordinary course of business. In the opinion of the Conservancy's management, the ultimate disposition of these matters will not have a material adverse effect on the Conservancy's financial condition. As described in an agreement between the City of New York, Department of Parks and Recreation, and the Conservancy dated April 28, 2006 (the agreement), the City of New York has agreed to indemnify and hold harmless the Conservancy for all services performed and activities conducted by the Conservancy pursuant to the agreement.

(11) Contract Revenue

In April 2006, the Conservancy renewed its eight-year management contract with the City of New York and the Department of Parks and Recreation, retroactive to July 1, 2005. Commencing on July 1, 2005, in order to be entitled to payments from the Department of Parks and Recreation, the Conservancy must raise and expend annually a minimum of $5,000 for maintenance and repairs, public programs, landscaping and rehabilitation, or repair of existing facilities, subject to certain exclusions. In exchange for meeting those requirements, the Department of Parks and Recreation will pay the Conservancy a minimum of $1,000, which is required by contract to be expended for specific services. This minimum payment can be increased up to a maximum of $2,000 by formula, based on the amount by which the Conservancy exceeds its $5,000 threshold in any one year.

Under this contract, the Conservancy is also entitled to a payment equal to a portion of concession revenue earned in Central Park. The Conservancy receives an amount equal to 50% of concession revenue earned in excess of $6,000, measured as of the prior fiscal year. Additional revenue received by the Conservancy for fiscal years 2013 and 2012 was $3,814 and $3,158, respectively. The contractual arrangement may only be terminated under specific conditions outlined in the agreement.

CENTRAL PARK CONSERVANCY, INC.

Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2013 and 2012
(Dollars in thousands)

The Conservancy recognizes revenue in connection with this contract as expenditures are made for specific services. In fiscal years 2013 and 2012, the Conservancy recognized as revenue and expended $5,814 and $5,158, respectively, related to the contract. At June 30, 2013 and 2012, the related receivable was $3,876 and $1,719, respectively.

In May 2013, the Conservancy renewed its management contract with the City of New York and the Department of Parks and Recreation, to provide services specified for operating, maintaining, repairing, restoring and providing programming in Central Park, and outside Central Park, for a ten year period beginning July 1, 2013 and expiring June 30, 2023, with two additional five year renewals available after the initial ten year term has expired. The only material change in the renewed contract is the omission of the $6,000 threshold on concession revenue.

Project Revenue

In March 2007, the Conservancy entered into a contract for capital projects for the Campaign for Central Park with the City of New York and the Department of Parks and Recreation, retroactive to July 1, 2006. Payment is on a reimbursement basis for eligible expenses incurred by the Conservancy, with the funds made available at a rate of up to $3,571 annually for seven years beginning in fiscal year 2007. However, the Conservancy has received notification from the City of New York that payments for fiscal years 2012 and 2013 will be available up to a maximum of $2,286 and $5,576, respectively.

The Conservancy recognizes revenue in connection with this contract as expenditures are made. In fiscal years 2013 and 2012, the Conservancy recognized $2,206 and $3,554, respectively, for project revenue under the campaign.

In May 2013, the Conservancy entered into a ten year contract for capital projects with the City of New York and the Department of Parks and Recreation for restoration projects throughout the park. Payment is on a reimbursement basis for eligible expenses incurred by the Conservancy, with the funds made available at a rate of up to $6,000 per year beginning July 1, 2013 and expiring June 30, 2023.

(12) Subsequent Events

In connection with the preparation of the financial statements, the Conservancy evaluated subsequent events after the balance sheet date of June 30, 2013 through November 22, 2013, which was the date the financial statements were available to be issued, and concluded that no additional disclosures were necessary.

Central Park Conservancy

Mission

The mission of the Central Park Conservancy is to restore, manage, and enhance Central Park, in partnership with the public.

The Conservancy aspires to build a great organization that sets the standard for and spreads the principles of world-class park management — emphasizing environmental excellence — to improve the quality of open space for the enjoyment of all.

The Conservancy is committed to sustaining this operating model to provide a legacy for future generations of park users.

Guiding Principle

Central Park is a masterpiece of landscape architecture created to provide a scenic retreat from urban life for the enjoyment of all and, in so doing, to establish New York's place among the great cities of the world. As the organization entrusted with the responsibility of caring for New York's most important public space, our work is founded on the belief that citizen leadership and private philanthropy are key to ensuring that the Park and its essential purpose endure.

Core Values

Commitment

We value commitment to our mission, Central Park and the visitor experience.

Excellence

We value innovation and the highest quality results in every aspect of our work.

Integrity

We value ethical conduct in our business practices.

Adaptability

We value adaptability in our response to change and challenges.

Communication

We value clear, consistent communication, teamwork and an open dialogue both internally and with the public.

Public Confidence

We value the public and work to earn and maintain their confidence in our role as caretakers of Central Park.
