PARTNERSHIP
From the Chairman and the President & CEO

Greetings,

This year marked 200 years since the birth of Frederick Law Olmsted, the visionary landscape designer who, with his partner Calvert Vaux, conceived a new, monumental public park with a forward-thinking vision: a magnificent, accessible, and peaceful respite from the pace of city life for all New Yorkers.

The value of Olmsted and Vaux’s original vision for the Park, as an unparalleled public space and a peaceful sanctuary, has never been more apparent nor more appreciated as we continued to navigate the pandemic and other challenges at home and abroad. During this time, millions have continued to seek solace in the tranquility provided by Central Park, and the Conservancy’s staff has worked tirelessly to ensure that the experience of being in this historic landscape remains as restorative as was originally intended.

In the decades since the Conservancy was founded, we have continued to expand our commitment to landscape management and overall Park maintenance while investing in Central Park’s infrastructure. But the Park’s unprecedented popularity has strained both the landscapes of the Park and our ability to care for it.

The next chapter of the Conservancy is creating a plan for the perpetual care of the Park’s historic and incomparable design and purpose, in the face of its burgeoning visitorship. We charted that path forward in our first-ever strategic plan, which we launched in 2020, and we have made tremendous progress since then, despite significant obstacles. This year’s annual report is organized to allow us to highlight our recent successes around the six overarching pillars of our plan:

- Caring for Central Park Forever, Celebrating the Purpose of the Park, Helping Other Parks, Protecting and Enhancing the Landmark, Assuring Long-Term Financial Sustainability, and Building Organizational Excellence.

Included in this report are highlights of the significant progress we have made under each of these pillars, including:

- Notable progress on construction of the Harlem Meer Center, which is on schedule to open in 2024.
- Continued curatorship of the Park’s history and impact through our work interpreting and celebrating Seneca Village, the site of a predominantly African-American community that existed prior to Central Park.
- The launch of our new Climate Lab initiative, a partnership with the Yale School of the Environment and the Natural Areas Conservancy.
- The creation of our new Business Leadership Council, which seeks to inspire the next generation of civic leaders.
- Progress on FOR ALL: A Campaign for the Long-Term Sustainability of Central Park, which will help underwrite the continued investment in the Park in the face of its enormous popularity, and ensure that the Park’s beauty and function are protected forever.

Ensuring the long-term sustainability of Central Park is our top priority. Our Stewardship Plan and fundraising campaign will allow us to execute on our ambitions.

We thank the City of New York and NYC Parks for their incredible partnership over the past 40 years, helping the Conservancy maintain Olmsted’s original vision for the Park as an accessible, safe, and peaceful place for all. Always, we have immense gratitude for all our donors and friends who have helped us weather these challenging times with their generous support.

Warm regards,

Thomas L. Kempner, Jr.
Chairman, Central Park Conservancy

President & CEO, Central Park Conservancy

From the City of New York

Dear Friends,

For more than 40 years, New York City’s groundbreaking partnership with the Central Park Conservancy, which has led to the complete transformation and restoration of Central Park, remains one of the most effective public-private partnerships in the City’s history. As we look back on the year we have had and look forward to the year to come, what is clear is that the City’s partnership with the Conservancy has and will continue to reap essential benefits for New Yorkers seeking a healthy, safe, and welcoming place of refuge and enjoyment.

Throughout the pandemic, Central Park served as an oasis for millions of City residents who flocked to its open spaces for safety, fresh air, exercise, and community. Now, as we chart our path forward as a city, Central Park and our partners at the Conservancy will play a critical role in our collective renaissance, and in our Administration’s effort to create a more equitable and resilient New York.

During the first year of our Administration, we were honored to take part in the Conservancy’s inaugural June Twitch celebration in Seneca Village, an area of the Park that existed as a thriving historic Black community on the west side of Manhattan in the years before Central Park was built. Through dance, music, and spoken word, the memory of Seneca Village was brought to life. We look forward to more celebrations of our Black and Brown communities, particularly as the Conservancy continues its work on the new Harlem Meer Center, which will enhance the recreational and ecological profile of the Harlem and East Harlem neighborhoods around the Park, and in St. Mary’s Park in the South Bronx, where the Conservancy’s Five Borough Program has been providing valuable support and on-site training to NYC Parks staff through hands-on technical assistance, landscape maintenance, and restoration support.

As we all confront the challenges of climate change on our urban infrastructure, the City is working to become more resilient than ever. This past fiscal year our Administration increased the number of tree plantings across the City by 47 percent, particularly in neighborhoods that need it the most, in order to provide more shade and cooler public spaces for everyone. The Conservancy supported this effort by launching the Central Park Climate Lab, which will leverage its experiences in Central Park to help us create new strategies for implementing climate mitigation and adaption protocols in heavily used parks across the City.

The revitalization and ongoing maintenance of Central Park is a case study for how government, the private sector, and local communities can come together to achieve truly great things. We are grateful for the Conservancy and its leadership, dedicated staff members, and many supporters who commit time and resources to preserving and maintaining one of the most iconic urban parks in the world. Our partnership with the Conservancy will continue to be a strong alliance as we build a more equitable, green, and enjoyable park system for all.

Sincerely,

Eric Adams

The Central Park Conservancy developed its first-ever strategic plan, A Plan for the Stewardship of Central Park: 2020–2027, which was approved by the Board of Trustees in June 2020. An ambitious roadmap for the future of Central Park, it addresses key challenges in the Park and maps out a plan for the financial stability of the Conservancy as its principal steward. The plan comprises three strategies and six objectives, outlined below.

Much of the work outlined in the Plan for Stewardship is well underway, and you can read about the progress we made this year in the pages ahead.

A Plan for the Stewardship of Central Park

Strategy for Operational and Programmatic Growth

OBJECTIVE 1: CARING FOR CENTRAL PARK FOREVER
We are committed to caring day-to-day for the iconic and historic resource.

OBJECTIVE 2: CELEBRATING THE PURPOSE OF THE PARK
We are committed to better managing the extraordinary growth in Park use and to renewing our focus on the visitor experience.

OBJECTIVE 3: HELPING OTHER PARKS
We are committed to seeking out and developing best practices and sharing our expertise and experience to empower other park organizations and elevate the field of urban park management.

Strategy for New Restoration and Capital Repairs

OBJECTIVE 4: PROTECTING AND ENHANCING THE LANDMARK
We are committed to ongoing capital investment in restoration and preservation projects.

Strategy for Organizational Growth

OBJECTIVE 5: ASSURING LONG-TERM FINANCIAL SUSTAINABILITY
We are committed to expanding and growing more predictable annual revenues.

OBJECTIVE 6: BUILDING ORGANIZATIONAL EXCELLENCE
We aspire to be a world-class organization with the capacity to fulfill our important mission.
Bolstering Operations Leadership

We welcomed a slate of experienced leaders to our Operations team:

Roger Mosier joined the Conservancy as our new Chief of Park Operations, providing strategic and operational leadership on all matters related to Park operations.

We also welcomed Margaret Asaro as Vice President for Park Maintenance & Facilities to enhance the Conservancy’s efforts to maintain the cleanliness of the Park as well as maintain its facilities, hardscape, monuments, fountains, and infrastructure.

Erica Sopha was promoted to fill the new Vice President for Park Use & Stewardship position. In this role, Erica is working to refine and expand the Conservancy’s activities and programs around the use of the Park and develop relationships to coordinate with outside agencies.

George Forrest started at the Conservancy as our Safety Director. In this newly created position, George focuses on creating and improving programs for workplace safety and ensuring staff and visitors alike face minimal risks.

They join John Dillon, Vice President for Landscape Management, who provides strategic leadership of the Conservancy’s Natural Areas, Garden, Tree Care, Turf Care, Outside Parks, and Parkwide Support teams.

Landscape Stewardship

Maintaining the health and beauty of our landscapes is one of our core responsibilities. Heavy use during the COVID-19 pandemic caused severe deterioration of our most popular lawns, and in response, our Operations staff implemented restorations that addressed more than 40 acres of lawns in various locations, using a combination of targeted high-impact sod installations and cost-effective reseeding projects.
Celebrating Juneteenth in Seneca Village

The Conservancy’s Visitor Experience department partnered with Artistic Director Andromeda Turre to host our inaugural Juneteenth celebration in Seneca Village. World-renowned artists gathered with our community, interpreting the history and significance of the holiday and Seneca Village through dance, poetry, music, storytelling, and art activities. This family-friendly event attracted visitors from all around the City, including Mayor Eric Adams.

The temporary outdoor exhibit “Discover Seneca Village” has been in place since 2019, sharing decades of research and allowing visitors to learn about community members in the place where they actually lived. Over the next year we will begin planning for a permanent commemoration in the Park, alongside new public programming.

Central Park is a microcosm of New York City itself—a constellation of groups with myriad interests all using the Park’s facilities and landscapes in different ways and for different purposes. To ensure a safe and positive experience, we focused on enhancing services to visitors and creating opportunities for engagement and good stewardship.

Engaging the Public

Our Visitor Experience team expanded its program lineup to better engage with the community and create more inclusive opportunities. We added free tours for NYC residents; collaborated with the National Association for Olmsted Parks; and brought back in-person events, including the family-friendly Harlem Meer Performance Festival, Chess Simuls, and Halloween on the Harlem Meer, which together drew 8,500 participants.

Volunteers

We reopened recruitment, revamped our onboarding process, and launched a new public volunteering initiative that focuses on Park cleanup. Our spring volunteer recruitment event raised awareness of the importance of Park stewardship and garnered mass interest in volunteering. We received hundreds of new sign-ups that day, and our work was featured in an in-depth segment on NY1.

By the end of the year, these collective efforts increased our total volunteers to 2,600.

“The Park Needs Us”

As part of an ongoing effort to raise more public awareness about our work, we launched a new campaign to help us spread the word. We reached millions of people through digital placements at LinkNYC kiosks and subways stations surrounding the Park and spoke to the Conservancy’s expertise and scope of work via an engaging slate of content hosted on our social channels, website, and other digital platforms.

Going Viral

Thanks to the support (and votes) of our friends and followers, the Conservancy website won a People’s Voice Webby Award in the Best Website and Mobile Site category for Cultural Institutions. Shortly after the launch of our TikTok channel, one of our videos accumulated more than 4.7 million views (and counting).

HELPING OTHER PARKS

We are committed to developing best practices and sharing our expertise to empower other park organizations and elevate the field of urban park management.

The New Climate Lab

In partnership with the Yale School of the Environment and Natural Areas Conservancy, we launched the Central Park Climate Lab to study the on-the-ground impacts of climate change on urban parks. Through this new initiative, we are conducting research in the Park and acquiring the data needed to help other organizations apply these learnings and develop best practices for the care and maintenance of their local parks.

Jose Figueroa (second from left), Assistant Manager Outside Parks, provides turf care training to NYC Parks staff at St. Mary’s Park in the Bronx.

Peter Haupt, Tree Care Manager, installs air temperature sensors in the Park.

Five Borough Program

The Conservancy’s Five Borough program works in parks and landmarks across New York City, sharing techniques for long-term care that we have learned over our 40-year history managing one of the most heavily used parks in the nation. From its founding in 2014 through April of this year, the program has provided more than 15,100 hours of direct support to our partners at NYC Parks in close to 30 parks.

In 2022, the program allocated more hours on-site per park and expanded offerings from turf care to general landscape management. The result has been over 120 hours of on-site training for Parks Department staff and the completion of critical projects, starting at St. Mary’s Park in the South Bronx.

Partnerships Lab

The Institute’s Partnerships Lab is a collaborative eight-month organizational mentorship program with nonprofit groups and agencies that care for parks and public spaces. It continued this year with the selection of organizations from New York City—including the Prospect Park Alliance, Queens Botanical Garden, and Friends of Morningside Park—and across the country. A newly piloted shorter form of the Lab helps expand the number of organizations we can reach with our capacity-building work.
The daily care and restoration of Central Park is a perpetual work in progress given the “wear and tear” caused by the ever-increasing numbers of Park visitors, as well as by the harsh urban environment. This year the Conservancy made progress on the following major projects—each requiring careful planning across a variety of practices, including architecture, design, and engineering.

The Kinderberg and Chess & Checkers House

Located in the area designed as the Children’s District, the Kinderberg was the largest and most elaborate of the Park’s original rustic shelters. Lost by the 1940s, it was replaced by the existing Chess & Checkers House. Our work to improve this historic building is now underway and will restore its plaza and replace the existing trellis with a rustic pergola—with integral seating and game tables—reminiscent of the original Kinderberg. Once completed, the building will also have ADA-compliant public restrooms and a ramp built into the slope on the east side of the site, making it fully accessible from the East Drive.

Conservatory Garden

The Conservatory Garden is a destination for neighborhood residents and visitors from all over the world. With its last significant restoration in 1983 focused on horticulture, our current work centers on improving the Garden’s hardscapes—pavements, retaining walls, and stairs—that are almost all original to its 1937 construction. This year, irrigation lines and trench drainage were installed in the English-style Garden, the curbs and their acid etching have been completed, and bluestone pavers were laid out on the pathways. The restoration, which is being done in phases, focuses next on the French-style Garden.
Harlem Meer Center

The transformation of the Lasker Rink and Pool site on the Harlem Meer is the most significant and complex project ever undertaken by the Conservancy. It represents the culmination of our work to re-establish the north end of the Park as a vital resource for the surrounding community.

Significant progress has been made since breaking ground in September 2021. Demolition of the old building is now complete, and construction of the new facility and surrounding landscape is underway, including excavation adjacent to the Drive to support the new building foundation.

Along with a larger-than-Olympic-size pool and outdoor spray pad for summer usage, the new Center will offer an enhanced skating experience in the winter with a full-scale ice rink. Once completed, the new facility will also provide unhindered access across the north end of the Park—both by reconnecting the watercourse that runs through the Ravine and creating a curvilinear boardwalk at the edge of the Meer. The shoreline restoration will also expand the footprint of the water body and enhance the visitors’ experience with nature in the middle of New York City.

We are also focused on curating the Center’s year-round public programming and developing a wide range of free or low-cost programming for children and adults primarily from the Harlem community.

Visit our website for more information on this project:
Park Perimeter

The Park’s six-mile perimeter was first paved in the 1930s and 1940s—and most of it hasn’t been restored since. Over time, its hexagonal asphalt pavers and granite blocks have settled and deteriorated, and areas of the perimeter are now uneven and prone to drainage problems.

This restoration will occur in phases, and the Conservancy is prioritizing and advancing the work based on an assessment of the existing conditions throughout the entirety of the perimeter. Each phase of our comprehensive reconstruction includes replacing the central walkway’s hexagonal pavers; resetting the granite block around the trees; replacing existing pavements at bus stops with accessible granite block pavers; reconstructing existing curbs and pedestrian ramps; replacing existing benches in their original pattern; planting new trees where necessary; and closing tree pits where tree plantings are not appropriate.

Design work is currently underway from East 90th to 96th Street. Work will continue in phases over the next several years to reconstruct the Park perimeter along Fifth Avenue up to 109th Street.

Visit centralparknyc.org/restoration to learn more about these projects and other work across our 843 acres. View never-before-seen photos and learn how our team of historians, designers, planners, and architects works with the public to continually improve Central Park.
A New Office of Philanthropy

The Conservancy created a new Office of Philanthropy, which coordinates efforts across our three fundraising arms: Development, the Women’s Committee, and Special Events.

These teams lead the way in funding our year-round care of the Park. The Frederick Law Olmsted Awards Luncheon—the signature annual event hosted by Women’s Committee—came together under one tent this spring and raised almost $3.9 million. Special Events kept up fundraising momentum throughout the summer and fall with our popular Taste of Summer event, which welcomed a lineup of the City’s premier chefs to Bethesda Terrace, and the Conservancy’s annual gala, this year with the theme Central Park Mod. Among many other year-round initiatives, the Development team spearheaded a neighbor-led fundraising program focused on galvanizing support from fellow New Yorkers.

See the Friendship section on pages 24–33 for a larger snapshot of this year’s key fundraising and stewardship events.

The FOR ALL Campaign

The Conservancy has the vision and the expertise necessary to care for the Park, but our success rests on bolstering our fundraising efforts. FOR ALL: A Campaign for the Long-Term Sustainability of Central Park will fund the ambitious goals laid out in our Stewardship Plan. In the face of Central Park’s enormous popularity, the Campaign will increase the Conservancy’s endowment to provide more financial stability for the organization, underwrite our work, and expand our ability to help other parks.

Business Leadership Council

The Conservancy launched our new Business Leadership Council to deepen our engagement with the business community. The Council offers an opportunity to support Central Park’s increasingly significant role in the health of New York City. The Conservancy, in turn, will provide connections and learning opportunities in civic leadership and corporate governance to its members.

This spring, we held the inaugural meeting of our new Council, which includes mid-level executives from more than 20 companies, ideally women and people of color. At this gathering, the group discussed the importance of civic leadership, corporate support of public causes, and the Conservancy’s most pressing challenges.
We aspire to be a world-class organization with the capacity to fulfill our important mission.

Expanding Our DE&I Work

The work to promote a culture of belonging at the Conservancy is ongoing, and we have continued to build upon the strong foundation our team established last year. The Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Staff Council developed an organizational DE&I statement (see page 94) to ensure that diverse perspectives and backgrounds are represented across the Conservancy. We are also in the process of developing an Equity Agenda that will guide our DE&I efforts within the organization, in the Park, and across the City.

Growing the Employee Resource Groups

We expanded our Employee Resource Groups (ERGs) to amplify and embrace the diversity of voices within the organization and strengthen relationships among employees. The four ERGs (LGBTQ+, Family/Caregivers, BIPOC, and Wellness) host events throughout the year and welcome any interested staff member to join. Alongside their colleagues in People & Culture, the ERG co-chairs also facilitated DE&I training for staff to further foster an inclusive and welcoming work environment.

Developing Conflict-Resolution Programs

As we experience increased usage of the Park, the Conservancy is committed to doing everything possible to ensure that our staff is safe. To help equip employees to de-escalate situations with the public, we developed a conflict-resolution customer service training and ride-along program that emphasizes equitable use of the Park. The program provides experiential guidance on interacting with Park patrons, communicating Park rules, and defusing conflict.

During Fiscal Year 2022, the Central Park Conservancy moved past many of the unprecedented challenges it faced during the COVID-19 pandemic and refocused its efforts on the long-term sustainability objectives contemplated in its strategic plan, A Plan For The Stewardship of Central Park: 2020–2027, which addresses the critical maintenance, use, and funding challenges confronting the Park.

Fiscal Year 2022 Operating Results

Fundraising results were strong with individual giving, membership, and events ending the year ahead of target. However, significantly diminished concession revenues impacted the Conservancy’s operating fee from the City of New York, which at $2.4 million for Fiscal Year 2022, represented a reduction of $6.5 million (or a 73% decrease) from pre-pandemic levels.

The Park experienced unprecedented use throughout the pandemic, placing an enormous strain on its landscapes, infrastructure, and staff. A number of the COVID-19 fiscal austerity measures put in place for Fiscal Year 2021 were eased this year; headcount, while still below required levels, was increased by 10% in Fiscal Year 2022 to respond to the intensity of visitor use more effectively.

Several significant capital projects were in progress during Fiscal Year 2022, including the renovation of the Dairy Visitor Center and Chess & Checkers House/Kinderberg and the reconstruction of the Conservatory Garden. Work continued on the new Harlem Meer Center, with the demolition of the existing building completed and site redevelopment underway. In total, there were $16.8 million of expenditures related to the Harlem Meer Center during Fiscal Year 2022.

Even with its many challenges, the Conservancy continued its decades-long commitment to helping other parks throughout the five boroughs, including its work in the Historic Harlem Parks (Jackie Robinson Park, Marcus Garvey Park, Morningside Park, and St. Nicholas Park). $3.9 million (or 7% of park operations and supporting services) was spent assisting parks other than Central Park in Fiscal Year 2022.

In total, Fiscal Year 2022 Operating Revenues increased by $15 million to $87.7 million, as compared to the prior year. Operating Expenses increased by $14.2 million to $87.5 million, resulting in a modest increase in Operating Net Assets of $0.2 million.

Net Assets

The Conservancy’s balance sheet remains strong, and the organization ended Fiscal Year 2022 with total net assets of $504 million, which was an increase of $24 million as compared to Fiscal Year 2021. The increase was mainly attributable to contributions related to the FOR ALL Campaign.

Endowment

Investments held for endowment on June 30, 2022, were $313.4 million, up $7.2 million from Fiscal Year 2021, which included $30 million in new contributions to the endowment and $22.8 million of investment losses (or 7.4% of portfolio value).

The investment of the Conservancy’s endowment is guided by a strategy that reflects the Conservancy’s unique mission and responsibility to care for the Park, a publicly owned asset—ensuring that the more than $1.3 billion of improvements made by the Conservancy over the last four decades will be sustained for future generations.

Outlook for Fiscal Year 2023

Although the impact of the pandemic has subsided, financial headwinds associated with an economic slowdown are a potential challenge for the Conservancy in the coming year.

In light of these uncertainties, the Conservancy’s Fiscal Year 2023 Budget includes a number of expense reduction contingencies. This will allow the Conservancy to quickly respond to the economic environment as it unfolds, while providing the critical resources needed to care for the Park and accomplish the ambitious goals contemplated in its strategic plan.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Central Park Conservancy is to preserve and celebrate Central Park as a sanctuary from the pace and pressures of city life, enhancing the enjoyment and wellbeing of all.

Guiding Principle

Central Park is a masterpiece of landscape architecture created to provide a profoundly democratic space and green respite for the City and all its people and to establish New York as one of the great cities of the world. The Conservancy honors its commitment to this iconic public space by applying its deep expertise in urban park management; by partnering with the community and the City of New York; and by marshalling all of the resources necessary for the Park’s long-term care. The Conservancy’s work is founded on the belief that citizen leadership and private philanthropy are key to ensuring that the Park and its essential purpose endure.

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

The Central Park Conservancy’s work is guided by the belief that Central Park, and all public parks, must be managed and actively protected as an inclusive and democratic space for all.

Working closely with our New York City partners, we will always strive towards creating and sustaining a sense of belonging for all visitors and advocating for equitable and accessible public use of the Park.

In service of this belief, we are committed to fostering a workforce and organizational culture that is as diverse as Central Park itself and the dynamic city it serves.

Core Values

COMMUNITY
We hold ourselves accountable for the care of Central Park, recognizing both its fragility and its importance to New York City and to the world.

EXPERTISE
We develop our expertise in the service of our mission and share our knowledge to elevate the field of urban park management.

INTEGRITY
We value and demonstrate sound moral and ethical principles in the workplace.

COLLABORATION
We value the power and effectiveness of working with our colleagues, with the City, and with the public to accomplish our goals as the principal steward of the Park.
